His Cow Butchered.

andals Entered Willard Smith's Barn, Led sils Cow to the Woods and Hilled Her--- The Mutilated |Body Found a Week Later --- Houses | Searched for

The finding, in a mutilated condition, of Willard Smith's cow, which was missed last week and was supposed to have been last week and was supposed to have been stolen, raised the temperature of the blood of indignation to the fever point among the citizens of the east part of the town the first of the week and it has not yet entirely resumed its normal state. The feeling spread to a considerable extent among the people of this village also and the mat-ter was the engrossing topic of conversa-tion for several days. On Tuesday night of last week Mr. Smith attended to his milking as usual and when leaving for the house latched the stable door on the outside without fastening it. In the morning the cow was gone. Mr. Smith at first thought the cow had gotten loose and could easily be found by searching the premises, but when a thorough search failed to reveal any trace of her he concluded she had been stolen. He was able to track her for some distance along the road but the trail was finally lost in the dust. He kept up the search, however, and, as it now appears, was at one time within a few feet of where the dead body of the cow lay covered with leaves. Nearly a week elapsed but Mr. Smith received no information as to what had become of his cow. On Monday morning of this week as John Jeffrey was passing along the road through the week passing along the road through the woods southwest of John Austin's, half a mile away, his attention was attracted by crows which had the appearance of hovering over which had the appearance of hovering over something. His natural curiosity led to investigation, resulting in the finding of the body of the cow partly covered with leaves, the wind having partly uncovered it. The animal had been dressed off and about half of the carcass, including the best meat, had been carried away.

At the instance of Nelson W. Newcomb a warrant was issued by Mark Ward and signed by C. W. Kimball for the searching of the house of a suspected person in Westminster, who lived in East Putney a year ago, but nothing was found to indicate that he was guilty. State's Attorney Robb of Bellows Falls, who was consulted, also issued search warrants but with no better success.

The cow, which was new milch and valued at from $30 to $40, was a source of no lit-tle revenue for Mr. Smith, to whom the loss comes especially hard as he is unable to perform a great amount of work.

The End Is Not Yet.

During the last term of the Windham county court at Newfane the report was given out that the case of the Racine Fire Engine company, W. H. Banfil agent, against E. S. Munger, G. S. Foster and William Robertson, a committee representing the citizens of the town of Putney, had been settled, the company agreeing to take back the fire engine and other appar-atus. To all intents and purposes the re-port was true but there has since bobbed up a new phase in the case which may prolong the actual settlement of the case for some time yet. A part of the agree-ment made at Newfane was that Dr. Munger should ship to the company from Putney the two storage barrels and the 50-foot length of hose which had never been used and which were stored in E. E. Blood's stable. When Dr. Munger went for the apparatus the hose was being used for washing carriages or for some similar purpose. It had evidently been put to that use as being of small value for anything else. Mr. Blood thought he ought to have the hose to pay for storing the barrels, and when informed that it cost $10 be still held to that opinion, although the barrels had been in the barn less than a The hose had then become "second year. The hose had then become "second hand" so that Dr. Munger could not fulfill his part of the agreement. Mr. Banfil was informed of the condition of things and he will probably make out a bill against Mr. Blood for the price of the hose. It is impossible to state what proceedings will then take place.

HINSDALE, N. H.

Hinsdale Won at Foot Ball.

The Hinsdale High school team easily defeated the Brattleboro academy eleven last Saturday on Riverside Park, by a score of 18 to 0. Brattleboro won the toss and chose the north goal. Smith kicked off, but Hinsdale tackled so hard that the ball was fumbled, and Hinsdale secured it, after which the hill means the secured it. ter which the ball was pushed steadily up the field for the first touchdown, which was made three minutes after play began. Smith tried for a goal with poor shoes on and failed. Before the end of the half another touchdown was added from which Smith kicked a pretty goal. This ended the scoring for the first half. In the second half Hinsdale added two touchdowns but no goals were kicked. The Brattleboros did not once have the ball in their hands except at the kick-offs, and when they fumbled the first kick-off and also when they caught Mann's punt just as time was called in the last half. For this reason it was only a question of offensive play on the part of Hinsdale, and defensive play on the part of Brattleboro. The academy another touchdown was added from which the part of Hinsdale, and defensive play on the part of Brattleboro. The academy boys played a strong up hill game and should be greatly commended for the gen-tlemanly character of their conduct. With so little training the Hinsdale boys put up a wonderfully strong game and many wil be proud of the result. The line up: BRATTLEBORO ACADEV

Arm Drawn Into the Gear. Edward Sweet, a weaver at Haile & Frost's mill, met with a serious accident Wednesday morning. While oiling a loom, his sleeve caught and his right arm was drawn into the gear. His wife, who was standing by, with more presence of mind than is usually exhibited at such times, immediately stopped the loom and called help. Mr. Sweet made a tremendous effort to free himself, but portions of his clothing had to be cut off to release him. The flesh was badly torn from the inside of his arm, above the elbow, and it was badly bruised, cut and scratched below, as was his right side, but, fortunately, no bones were broken. Dr. Pratte dressed the wounds, and he is as comfortable as can

Merry Time for Young People. Mr. and Mrs. James Hancock invited

A large farm house is a capital place to go for a good time, and this was no exception. A merry party filled the house. Games, music and dancing were all highly enjoyed, and made the evening seem far too short. The mandolin solo by Titus Hancock added much to the pleasure of the guests. Refreshments were served, and all went to their homes voting it a good time and a good place to

Lost $1000 in the Street.

Mrs. Johanna Quinn of Holyoke lost an envelope containing bills aggregating over $1000 on the street Friday. Her husband was taken to the Northampton asylum that day and Mrs. Quinn went to the Hol yoke savings bank and drew out all his earnings, amounting to $1020. She put the envelope under her arm and started to do some shopping. When she came to pay for her purchases she was unable to find the money. The affair is particularly unfortunate as the husband will probably not be able to support the family again and besides Mrs. Quinn there are five small children that will have to be fed and clothed.

Death of Gilbert D. Stedman. Our community was shocked Wednesday afternoon by the announcement of the death, by his own hands, of Gilbert D. Stedman. Since last spring Mr. Stedman and his wife have lived in the family of their daughter, Mrs. Chester E. Perry. On Wednesday forenoon after calling up-on a daughter, who lived near by, he went home, performed a little work about the and went out about 11 o'clock Being missed shortly afterward search was instituted and about 12:30 his body was found hanging by a rope in the stable.

For several months Mr. Stedman has been in very feeble health, suffering severely from the effects of a cancer. His fear that the progress of the disease would make him a burden on those who cared for him was often expressed and his friends had lately seen indications that his mind was becoming unbalanced. Mr. Stedman was born at Leyden, Mass., Jan. 16, 1818. When 18 years of age he came to Putney and has since been a resident of Windham county. In 1843 he married Nancy Keyes of Putney, who survives him. He was engaged as a farmer in Putney till 1863, when he came to this place and bought the farm now owned by Chester E. Perry. With the exception of one year spent in Vernon he has since been a resident of this town, living for a long time, till failing health compelled him to seek his children's care, at the place now occupied by Frank Morse as a summer home at South Newfane. Mr. and Mrs. Stedman had five children born to them, four of whom are now living—Charles K. Stedman, Mrs. Chester E. Perry and Mrs. George W. Dickinson of this village, and Mrs. Dwight E. Bailey of South Newfane. The funeral occurs this, Friday, afternoon, at the house of C. E. Perry, Rev. S. F. Bickford of South Newfane officiating. Mr. Stedman was a man who held the respect and high esteem of all who knew him it is not necessary for the back towns to always take back seats, especially in matters relating to morals and education. They take a good deal of pride, perhaps justly, in their schools. This has been somewhat stimulated by a series of gatherings in which the scholars from the several districts have been brought together for competitive work in different branches of study. Such a gathering was held in our village schoolhouse Wednesday afternoon, under the direction of our school superin-tendent, Mrs. A. A. Morse. About one-half the scholars in town and a large number of highly interested parents and friends were present.

The repeating of the 232 Psalm and vocal music by Mrs. Lamb's Parish school furnished the opening inspiration. The singing by the different schools gave ample no longer neglected. The class exercises in arithmetic and grammar were as entertaining as a good play. Special attention was given to old-fashioned parsing and analysis in a way to cause the spectators who were students 25 years ago to return thanks that they had heard of those terms once more. Very instructive essays were read by Mr. Heald of the Newfane school and by Mr. Chase of district No. 9. The singing of a patriotic song by the united schools closed the exercises

The Joseph Ladue Gold Mining and Development Co. Away,

Mr. Joseph Ladue, President and Gen-FOR THE FOLLOWING REASONS FOR THE FOLLOWING REASONS

1. The company is financed by a conservative and experienced board of directors; men of highest integrity, among whom are Hon, Chauncey M. Depew, H. Waiter Webb, of New York Central R. R. Co., Gen. Thos. L. James, Ex-Postmaster-Gen'i of the U. S., Lieutenant Gov. Maclintosh of Northwest Territory, Wm. J. Arkell, owner "Judge" and "Lesille's Weekly;" John Carstensen, comptroller of N. Y. Central Road; and Hon. Smith M. Weed of Plattsburgh, N. Y.

2. Over $7,000,000 bas already been brought down from the upper Yukon district, and many millions more will follow. This company, having for its president and manager the PIONEER of the Klondike, must realize a large part of this wealth.

of the Klondike, must realize a large part of this wealth.

3. THE STOCK HAS BEHIND IT ACTUAL ASSETS, ALREADY ACQUIRED AND IN PROCESS OF DEVELOPMENT. (This statement is based on absolute fact. It required if years of experience to enable Mr. Ladue to obtain what he has turned over to this company. It was not accomplished in a "few weeks or months.")

4. Since Mr. Joseph Ladue was bright enough to preempt the town site of Dawson City, obtain a mosopoly of the lumber business in that region and stake some of the richest gold placer claims in this new mining district, subscribers have confidence in his ability to manage the development of the company's valuable holdings in the gold placer mines, timber lands, saw mill and gold placer mines, timber lands, asw mill and real estate property in Dawson, under the company's special Canadian charter, so that large dividends may accrue therefrom.

5. As this company takes over from Mr. Ladue most extensive holdings of Klondike property (actually acquired) and believed capable of earning large dividends on the stock, it offers inventors advantages possessed by no other existing company.

ters investors advantages possessed by no other existing company.
